

Our Volunteer of the Month

Sarah Dill

Sarah Dill began volunteering at the Harry C. Barnes Memorial Nature Center in December of 2015. She started her volunteer work in the animal care department, as an animal caretaker, making sure habitats were maintained and ensuring proper nutritional care to the reptiles, amphibians and birds of prey. Sarah has also participated in several special events where she was able to showcase and educate others about the reptiles and amphibians that reside at the Nature Center. Sarah originally came to the Nature Center to gain experience with animals to apply to her ultimate goal of working professionally with exotic animals.

Sarah is currently a senior at Southington High School and participates in the Vocational Agricultural program with a focus on Animal Science. Once she graduates, she intends on working towards a degree in Marine Biology or Marine Sciences. Sarah also enjoys writing, drawing, playing music and bring outside when she has spare time.

Many thanks to you Sarah!
